Message

I am delighted that the Tribal Research & Cultural Institute is going to publish a literary journal namely 'SA/MA' on the occasion of "Celebration of Kokborok Sal" on 19th January, 2023.

I hope the Kokborok Language will not only play an important role as a means of communication, but also reflect the cultural ethos of the tribal people living in Tripura.

I extend my best wishes to all the Kokborok speaking people of Tripura and also convey my sincere thanks to all the officials of the Tribal Research & Cultural Institute for their efforts in accomplishing the task successfully.

The Discovery of the Sarinda and Changfrengh Musical Instruments

Buddharam Debbarma, Linguistic Officer (Ext.)

Long Long years ago, the Tripura State was independent and ruled by the kings. There was total 184 number of kings from the beginning and all the kings belongs to Tripuri Community, now known and titled as Debbarma, Dev Burman etc. Largest tribe in the state of Tripura.

Once upon a time, there was a king namely Hachong king who ruled in Tripura. In the ancient time the kings were very much fond of hunting wild animals in the forest. One day the King Hachong had gone to the forest along with his companions for hunting and suddenly heard a sweet song and music in the deep forest. The king then followed the music and searched around the jungle and finally met a young boy, who was a folk singer, singing very sweetly and playing along the musical instrument Sarinda. The king was very glad and enjoyed the music.

The king asked the boy "Why are you singing and living in this deep forest"?, and the boy replied to the king "I am facing many troubles since I have been socially out casted from a nearby village, along with my widowed mother to live in this deep jungle and surviving on jhum cultivation". Then the king asked the boy to tell him about the making of the instrument Sarinda and the reason of living in the forest. The boy replied "In our village there is a leader namely chowdhury, he is the supreme leader and control over the villagers. He has a beautiful daughter and we both love each other and wanted to get married." There was a fact that once the chowdhury himself declared that he will allow his daughter to marry only to that person who can hunt a very wild and huge pig and bring it in front of his house. The boy said, "I have already hunted a huge pig and presented to chowdhury according to his assurance but the chowdhury has denied arranging the marriage with me, going against the self made declaration since I belong to a poor family".

Many villagers have tried to arrange the marriage as per his declaration but the chowdhury being inhuman and cruel, directed the villagers to socially out cast the young boy and his widowed mother from the village.

The boy said to the king "since, the village chowdhury didn't allow the marriage and socially rejected from the village, I sing songs and play the musical instrument Sarinda in loving memory of my lover". Then the young boy also told the king about the making of Srinda by wooden raw materials, some part of bamboo, some part of horse tail and some goatskin leather.

After hearing this sad story the king wanted to help the poor boy and asked the boy to make more and more Sarinda and bring it to his palace.

Then, after observing all the facts of the village chowdhury's cruelty against the young boy, the king ordered the village chowdhury to attend the king's palace along with his daughter. The king then decided to judge the unfair incidence and arranged the young boy's marriage with his lover. The king also directed the young boy to make more and more musical instrument Sarinda in his palace for the future. This is the story behind the discovery of the musical instrument Sarinda in Tripura state.
